

"As the father of a son with autism, I understand the hardships millions of other American families face everyday. Children with disabilities need a wide range of medical and long-term services and support that our current healthcare system does not prioritize, or they are only available in limited amounts through private insurance."

-Andrew Yang

Have you or a loved one gone through the ordeal of trying to get SSI for a disability? Then you know what a bureaucratic nightmare it is.

The average wait time in getting SSI approval for being disabled is 4 months, and an appeal takes an average of 15 months! When the average American cannot afford an emergency $400 expense, we believe that's at least 4 months too long!

And then even with a successful application you still have to face demeaning and arduous "reevaluation" processes every couple years -even if you have an obvious permanent disability.

With denials and appeals these stressful and demeaning reevaluations can take years, costing thousands in bureaucratic overhead!

If this leaves you thinking there's got to be a better way, there is:

Yang's Freedom Dividend would give every American, regardless of medical or financial condition, $1000/mo. to anyone who opts-in.

No check-ups. No appeals. No bureaucracy.

No Contest.
